In today's fast-paced world, ability to learn and adapt is becoming increasingly essential. This is why lifelong learning skills are essential for students to develop. These skills go beyond memorising facts and figures.

Two first important lifelong learning skills are the ability to summarise information and reflect on learning. These involve identifying the key points of a text or lecture and reducing them into a shorter form and then reflect on the past learning experiences and consider how new knowledge can be applied in the future. Learning from others and personalising learning are also vital skills. Students need to seek out mentors, peers and experts in their fields to learn from their experiences. At the same time, learning from others does not mean copying from them.

Students can tailor others' approach to learning to their own needs and preferences. For example, some peers learn best through visual aids, but you may prefer hands-on activities.

Reading extensively is a great way to learn about new ideas and perspectives. While reading a wide range of genres and topics, students cultivate their curiosity with the texts and identify connections between ideas. They can develop a deeper understanding of the materials. Familiarising oneself with new technologies is also crucial for lifelong learning. With advances in technology, new learning tools are constantly being developed, and students need to be able to adapt to these changes in education. Online learning platforms, online courses, digital textbooks, and educational apps can provide students with new ways to learn.

In conclusion, the above-mentioned lifelong learning skills are indispensable for students to develop if they want to succeed in today's world.

23. How many lifelong learning skills are mentioned in the text?

B. Five

C. Six

24. How is the text organized?

  - C. By cause and effect
25. In what way can students learn to reflect?
- A. By thinking about their previous experiences
  - B. By thinking about future experiences
  - C. Both A and B

26. What does it mean by 'reading extensively'?
- A. Reading a lot of books in a short time
  - B. Reading the titles of the books
  - C. Reading a range of genres and topics

27. Why do students need to use new technologies to learn?
- A. Because they offer them new ways to learn
  - B. Because they are inexpensive to learn
  - C. Because they are constantly changing

How to find a summer job? A guide for high school students

If you're currently in secondary school you may be interested in getting a job during your summer break. However, you may not know how to find a summer job. Here is some useful advice for you.

Firstly, you should find out when your school will close for the summer. Then you should plan to apply for jobs two to three months before the start of your summer break. This can help ensure that you have a job already lined up when summer arrives. After that you need to learn about the types of jobs that are available. For example, find out whether there are full-time or part-time jobs, and whether they require previous experience or training so that you can feel confident about applying.

Secondly, you should prepare an application letter for the job you want to apply for. In the letter, you should explain why you want the job and provide more details about the experiences or skills listed on your CV. You may have to change each application letter for every specific job to increase your chances of moving further in the hiring process. For example, your application letter for a shop assistant may highlight different qualifications than the one for a home tutor to a young child.

Lastly, you should prepare for the job interview. If an employer is interested in hiring you, they may ask you for an interview. Before the interview, prepare for some questions that the interviewer is likely to ask you, such as why you want the position and what relevant skills you have. On the day of the interview, bring printed copies of your CV and application letter in case the employer wants to review them. You should also wear a professional outfit and try to be positive and friendly during your interview.
